Boost Your Presentation with Great Support Materials

Getting the right balance of support materials for your presentation can be tough. On the one hand, you don't want too many slides and too much text; but on the other, a presentation that lacks materials can fall a bit flat.

This course shows you how to keep your audience engaged with effective support materials that enhance your message.

You'll know how to recognise and avoid the features of poorly designed visuals, and know when a visual aid or other media will enhance your presentation.

And of course you'll create materials that are legible, clear and impactful -- and which support your relationship with the audience. You won't look back!

This Support Materials skills training course, like all our courses, has been developed over many years of classroom and online delivery. Content has been thoroughly researched and is constantly updated so it's always leading edge. It's completely interactive and is full of practical knowledge and solutions.

Still wondering whether to do the course?

More about the ZandaX Creating Great Presentation Support Materials course

Create Support Materials that are Relevant & Effective

Add impact to your presentations with well-planned support materials

The first thing to remember is that visuals can have a significant effect on your audience -- good or bad! So we show you how to design your visuals with the audience in mind, as well as the message you are giving. We also show you good, and bad, habits in design so you can develop an effective style based on best practice.

You'll learn when handouts are a good way of enhancing the effect of your presentation (because it's not always the case).

You'll end up by knowing when support materials are beneficial -- and how to create them for maximum impact.

Watch the modules, revisit them time and again ... and have fun with improving your skills!
